USA - Blazing flames for Kansas City Power & Light Building

Recognized as one of the finest examples of art deco architecture in the US, this 36-story skyscraper opened in 1931 as the headquarters of the Kansas City Power & Light Company. KCP&L spared no expense with the construction of the building, which features a reinforced concrete structure and an exterior clad in Indiana limestone. The main focus of the tower was, and still is, its eye-catching...
